ABOUT THE INSTITUTE
 Ideal Institute of Management and Technology & School of Law was established in 1999 under the aegis of New Millennium Education Society. The society came into being with a clear objective to establish an institution of eminence in the fields of professional, technical and management education in accordance with the policies and the regulations of the State Government and Central Government. The name of the society in itself is in tune with the requirements of education in the new millennium i.e. "An education that ensures a career for the individual to fulfill the needs of the society as well as meet the demands of the nation". Beginning from a very modest start, the Institute has now acquired a commendable position as a premier educational institution imparting education in the fields of Law, business administration and education and conducts B.A.L.L.B.(H), B.B.A. (CAM), and B.B.A. (Morning as well as Evening) programmes of Guru Gobind Singh Indraprastha University, Delhi.

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE
 With a population of over 1.3 billion, India is soon set to dislodge China as the most populous country of the world. While India has one of the fastest growing populations in the world today, its far behind most others when it comes to preserving the environment. Some of the major environmental concerns confronting India include: "Air pollution from industrial effluents and vehicle emissions; "Water pollution from raw sewage, lack of adequate sanitation, non potable water throughout the country; "Municipal solid waste management (MSWM) etc.

Though the Indian government has shown some foresight in the area of environmental concerns by enacting about two hundred laws dealing with environmental protection, but fund crunch and lack of political will has reduced them to mere chits of paper. The first important regulation enacted was the Water Act of 1974 followed by the Air Act of 1981. These acts created the Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) responsible for data collection and policy enforcement. It also developed detailed procedures for environmental compliance at the central government level. Simultaneously, a second control board at the state level called State Pollution Control Board (SPCB) was also established to collect data and for policy enforcement at the state level. India's key policies relating to environmental protection are governed by: "The National Forest Policy, 1988; "Policy statement for abatement of pollution, 1992; and "National conservation strategy and policy statement on environment and development, 1992. India's top environment watchdog National Green Tribunal, which has been a hub of environmental litigation since 2010, is flooded with cases relating to cleaning and rejuvenation of our rivers, air pollution from various sources, burning of agricultural residue in fields, management of solid and plastic waste, cutting of trees and deforestation, ground water extraction and others.

Hence, it is clear that the current environmental problems in India are not due to a lack of legislation, but the lack of implementation. The conference aims to address these issues.
